Many sports tend to have a bias towards one sex or another. Football, for example, is by and large a male-dominated sport and you don't get much more masculine than rugby! On the other side of the fence, netball would definitely fall into the female category. Yet there are some sports that gracefully transcend genders, appealing to both men and women.

Golf is undoubtedly one of these sports and it also has no age limits. Dotted around courses throughout the UK you will find some unlikely groupings of people who are linked by their love of this great outdoor sport. Some will play daily while others only on weekends, perhaps as a way of releasing the stress of a difficult week at the office.

Keen golfers tend to join a club and membership packages vary considerably in price. Many golf clubs simply offer standard packages with the assumption that one size fits all and offer little flexibility. Yet some offer more realistic membership packages, where they take into account how often you'll play and tailor a package to your individual needs.

Barnham Broom Golf Club in Norfolk is breathing new life into membership and taking this more flexible and appealing approach. Membership enquiries are dealt with on a one by one basis, where potential members are able to discuss their requirements with the golf team at Barnham Broom. Membership is tailored to fit you rather than you having to fit into the club.

As such the Norfolk golf club has a thriving membership, with many golfers taking advantage of this sensible approach to play some of the finest golf in Norfolk. Two beautiful championship courses tempt golfers to the club. While both have been designed by one of Europe's foremost golf course architects, Frank Pennink, they are considerably different and offer numerous challenges! The Valley Course has an abundance of water and blends seamlessly with the surrounding countryside, while the Hill Course offers fine holes and fine views of the region.

Membership benefits include the opportunity to take part in competitions that run throughout the year for men, women, juniors and seniors. And the 19th hole is the Sportsbar and Caf  where you can relax with fellow members over a light bite or perhaps just a refreshing drink while planning your next round and swapping tips.

For those looking to improve their game, lessons can be booked with the course PGA professional, Ian Rollett, who will guide you through aspects of your game. Improve your technique during a one to one lesson, organise a group lesson for friends or perhaps a full day of golf including some tuition for a society or work awayday.

So if you're looking for a golf club to join in Norfolk but can't find the right membership package to suit, then Barnham Broom is definitely worth considering.
